1 Labour Market Partnerships Program

1.1 Objectives

The Labour Market Partnerships (LMP) program is designed to encourage, support and facilitate labour force adjustments and human resource planning activities that are in the public interest. The LMP program provides funding to encourage and support employers, employee/employer associations and communities in developing and implementing strategies for responding to labour force adjustments and meeting human resource requirements. The LMP program aims to address labour market issues through the facilitation of effective partnerships.

1.2 Eligibility

Eligible Sponsors

The Labour Market Partnerships program shall only be used to assist eligible organizations that are either:

1. Businesses;
2. Federal crown corporations and comparable provincial/territorial crown corporations;
3. Organizations;
4. Individuals;
5. Municipal governments;
6. Band/tribal councils; and
7. Public health and educational institutions.

All not-for-profit organizations that apply for funding shall have Director's Liability Insurance.

Eligible Activities

The Labour Market Partnerships program may support activities related to human resource planning and labour force adjustment. Activities can include related research, development of human resource strategies, promotion of beneficial human resource and adjustment practices (best practices), coordination of community-based approaches to addressing labour market issues, short-term adjustment services for workers facing layoff and the creation of economic (employment) development plans and community marketing plans. Key characteristics of the program include:

1. Activities that focus on a labour market issue and be assessed as likely to have a positive impact on the labour market;
2. Activities that involve partnership;
3. Activities that involve the development or implementation of strategies for dealing with labour force adjustments and/or for meeting human resource requirements;
4. Funding that is finite in nature. Although a series of agreements may be signed with the same sponsor, each agreement shall state specific project outcomes and timeframes and not be reliant on a future agreements for success; and,

5. Activities that assist people who are in the labour market or about to enter into the labour market.

Some examples of eligible initiatives include:

1. Development and dissemination of labour market information needed for purposes of labour force adjustment or human resource planning (e.g., job fair to raise awareness of employment opportunities within a sector or geographic area and to connect employers anticipating skill shortages with potential workers);
2. Planning for maintenance of a skilled workforce in a particular sector (supporting productivity and sector competitiveness) through the identification of anticipated training needs and establishment of a plan to ensure that employee skills are maintained. Partners in such a project may include representatives of employers in the sector, union, municipal and the education and training sector;
3. Planning for maintenance of a skilled workforce through a broad community study of options, such as training, promotions, job rotation, re-alignment of responsibilities, retention approaches, succession planning and recruitment;
4. Assisting a community with the development of a strategy to prepare for future skills requirements and prevent skills shortages. This strategy may include identification of available skills in the community, indication of the need for new training options and development of a plan to increase the participation of groups that are under-represented in the work force. Local educational or training institutions would typically be a partner in such a project;
5. Funding the development of partnerships to ensure the provision of labour market information and guidance concerning anticipated skills needs, to educational institutions (such a project should provide advice to all relevant educational institutions. Care should be taken not to duplicate or displace this existing work of educational institutions or established sector councils);
6. Funding activities that heightens awareness of labour market trends and requirements;
7. Assisting an employer association in a growth sector with the development of an information campaign about future job prospects and/or the development of a strategy to recruit employees from other geographic areas where there may be a skills surplus;
8. Supporting the development of a human resource plan for an employer or group of employers facing expansion (such assistance to a single employer may only be provided in situations where it is deemed that any resulting competitive advantage that may be experienced by the employer is incidental to the labour market benefit);
9. Funding a business association to canvass local employers regarding hiring projections during a peak season. Activities may include determining which companies need assistance in recruiting staff, developing recruitment plans and identifying short-term housing availability;
10. Assisting an employer association with the development of its member's capacity for human resource planning and interviewing and employee selection, through the development of materials, provision of seminars and other awareness activities;
11. Funding activities related to engaging key partners needed to address a labour market issue, including preliminary coordination of activities of the partnership and establishment of supports necessary for continuation of the effective partnerships (e.g., supporting the establishment of a community steering committee with representatives from business, education, labour and government);

12. Improving a community's capacity to meet labour force needs by funding a study identifying potential for diversification of the economy, where it is deemed that the basis of the economy is vulnerable.

The Labour Market Partnerships program does not provide direct financial assistance to insured participants, individuals who are unemployed or individuals who are threatened by imminent job loss.

Some examples of ineligible activities are:

1. Subsidizing an organization or a business in any way other than to assist with planning for human resource requirements and assisting employees facing job loss. This includes:
 - a. Business set-up, operating costs or capital acquisitions;
 - b. Research related to new products or product development;
 - c. Research related to accessing new markets or marketing of their products or services;
 - d. Obtaining ISO certification;
 - e. Activities to address union-management collective bargaining issues;
 - f. Activities that address business operational issues or business planning;
 - g. Survival planning for a threatened company; or
 - h. Creating new organizations or branches of organizations, or providing funding for the core activities of organizations;
2. Delivering or purchasing training for employed or unemployed individuals. This includes:
 - a. The development, piloting or testing of new training approaches for the unemployed;
 - b. The training of employment service delivery professionals or human resource management practitioners;
 - c. Assisting training institutions to develop training capacity and infrastructure; or
 - d. Funding conferences, except where it is clearly demonstrated that the outcome will improve the capacity of employers/communities to deal with human resource requirements and/or implement labour force adjustments;
3. Supporting community development or community capacity building other than that which is focused on addressing an identified labour market issue. This includes:
 - a. Assisting communities to address social issues such as addiction or mental health problems, parenting skills and child care challenges;
 - b. Assisting communities to develop infrastructure, such as buildings and tourist sites;
 - c. Assisting communities to develop services such as transportation systems, health services, policing services and literacy programs; or
 - d. Assisting community interest groups and organizations to build their overall capacity (e.g., to address their mandate or increase membership);
4. Planning for economic development that is not in response to an identified labour market issue. This includes:

- a. Community economic development planning that does not have commitment and involvement of key partners, including municipal and provincial governments;
 - b. General on-going activities associated with economic development, such as regional/local economic development offices and staff; or
 - c. Implementation of economic development strategies, such as offering financial incentives to attract new business;
5. Delivering employment services and interventions for unemployed clients. This includes:
 - a. Supporting the delivery of another program; or
 - b. Delivery of employment services to employed individuals, unless they are facing job loss, in which case they can be assisted to adjust;
 6. Carrying out any activities in which the federal government or a provincial/territorial government is the primary recipient of goods or services. Government may be an incidental user of the information if it is developed primarily for the use of the recipient or others. This includes:
 - a. Developing a business plan for delivery or effective use of Employment Benefits and Support Measures (EBSM) or other labour market programming in a community; or
 - b. Undertaking evaluations that are primarily for use by the federal government (where Labour Market Partnerships is used to carry out evaluations for the use of others, it shall not be done on a stand-alone basis, but as a component in an agreement for the development of a plan or strategy); and
 7. The funding of activities targeted to children.

Labour Market Issues

Activities funded through LMP must focus on an identified labour market issue. Labour market issues are generally characterized by a current or anticipated imbalance in the labour market between supply (workers) and demand (employers). The imbalance between supply and demand may be an imbalance between available or anticipated jobs and available people (numbers). It can also be about an imbalance between available or anticipated jobs and the skills of available people. The two biggest indicators of a labour market issue are unfilled jobs and high unemployment.

Labour market issues result from such situations as:

1. Industry downsizing;
2. Industry upsizing, new development, relocation;
3. Impact of new technologies;
4. Labour shortages;
5. Shortage of year round job opportunities; and
6. Lack of community and organizational capacity for human resource planning.

Current or anticipated labour market issues may be addressed, improved or prevented through activities related to human resource planning and/or labour force adjustment. Labour market issues are normally of broad community concern and the most effective solutions will result from broad involvement and commitment to addressing the issue.

Partnership

Typically labour market issues generate interest and concern from a variety of individuals, organizations and levels of government. It is essential that activities supported through LMP involve partners (e.g., individuals or groups of people who recognize that there is a labour market issue, want to address the issue, and are willing to invest time, energy and/or resources to work together to do so).

In addition to the strength brought to the LMP project through broad involvement and commitment, partnership normally results in improved outcomes and follow-up. Although broad involvement is encouraged, the LMP requirement for partnership is satisfied if at least two parties (other than the Department) have demonstrated ongoing commitment to the project.

Individuals who have committed as a partner in support of LMP activities will normally be representing an organization. In communities with very limited organizational capacity, committed and qualified individuals may be recognized as partners in order to satisfy the partnership requirement.

Satisfactory evidence of partnership includes a tangible indication that each partner is committed to investing time, energy and/or resources (e.g., physical, monetary or in-kind) in the project.

Stakeholders include any organization, government entity, or individual that has a stake or may be impacted by a specific labour market issue. While stakeholders may have interest in an LMP project, unless they actively contribute to the project, they cannot be considered as partners.

In the case of an agreement between the Department and a single business (such as a human resource planning activity with significant labour market implications), partnership can be demonstrated through the active and ongoing involvement in the project of individuals representing specific interests within the business. Normally however, if human resource planning for a single employer is necessary to address a labour market issue, other members of the community will lend their support to the activity as well.

Eligible Costs

Financial assistance for LMP must be for a finite period of time and for a specific activity directly related to the approved activities of the project. Should the LMP project be part of a broader initiative involving a number of activities, LMP funding must be directly related to the approved activities.

Project costs will be assessed to determine if they are reasonable and appropriate in relation to the proposed project and activities. Depending on assessment, costs will be included or disallowed. When assessing a cost item there are three considerations:

1. Compliance to the program terms and conditions;
2. Does it contribute to the success of the project; and
3. To what extent can it be considered reasonable.

Eligible costs may include (but not limited too) items such as:

- Staff Wages;
- Mandatory Employment Related Costs;
- Professional Fees;
- Travel;
- Telecommunications;
- Audit;
- Rent;
- Utilities;
- Furniture;
- Advertising;
- Postage/Courier;
- Bank Charges;
- Insurance;
- Printing; and
- Office Supplies.

The eligible cost categories may not be an exhaustive list. Additional costs may be assessed and negotiated, if deemed reasonable and appropriate.

Assistance may also be provided in consideration of the central administrative functions of the coordinator's operations that are drawn upon to support agreement activities.

2 Labour Market Programs Support System (LaMPSS)

The LMP program is administered by the Department using the Labour Market Programs Support System (LaMPSS) application. LaMPSS is a common method for administering Labour Market Programs in Newfoundland and Labrador, focused on providing consistency in processes and improving services to labour market program agreement holders.

All organizations entering into an agreement for delivering Labour Market Programs in Newfoundland and Labrador must first be registered as a LaMPSS organization. This is a one-time registration process. If your organization has not previously registered with LaMPSS, you can obtain a LaMPSS registration form at http://www.aesl.gov.nl.ca/lampss_public/index.html.

The functionality of LaMPSS provides organizations with self-serve capability, enabling you to apply for funding online for some labour market programs, as well as submitting required financial and activity reports online. Once available, we will provide you with user access enabling the ability to utilize the LaMPSS self-service capabilities.

Please read this entire Program Guidelines Document. The information contained in this Guide will become part of the contract/agreement with the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador for the delivery of LMP program.

Submitting Your Application

Once you have completed the application including the attachment of all required documentation, the application will be submitted to AESL using the LaMPSS Self-Serve system.

In this section of the application enter the information that was provided when your organization was registered in LaMPSS – your Organizations ID, Username and Password. Click the submit box. You will be connected with the LaMPSS System and your application will be submitted.

If you have completed the application form on paper, mail your completed application form and the required attachments to the local AESL office.

4 Labour Market Partnerships Reporting Requirements

The requirements for Activity and Financial reports for LMP will be outlined in your agreement contract. Reports should be completed online using LaMPSS Self-serve functionality. If you require a paper form, contact your Agreement Manager.

4.1 Completing an Activity Report

This section provides supporting information that you will need to complete the Activity Report.

Reporting Period Dates

Please enter the start and end date for the period this report covers.

Organization Information

Enter the name and complete mailing address for your organization.

Project Activities

For each LMP project activities, please provide the following information for each activity in your Project Agreement:

1. Start Date – Enter the start date of this activity in your project;
2. End Date – Enter the end date of this activity in your project;
3. Activity Description – Enter the description of the activity in your project; and
4. Update/ Status This Period – Describe what activities have occurred during the reporting period.

Participants

Enter zero as it is not applicable to this program.

Supporting Documentation

There are no mandatory documents required; however if you have supporting documents, or if the Department requests specific supporting documents, attach them to your Activity Report.

Reporting Notes

Provide any additional information for this reporting period.
